Author Index 1985

Alfsen, Erik 5–8
Arbess, Daniel J. 105–116

Bay, Christian 145–154
Behar, Nansen 363–373
Bergfeld, Lennart 21–32
Binter, Josef 387–398
Bota, Liviu 1–3
Brucan, Silviu 313–322
Brzoska, Michael 129–137
Bukarambe, Bukar 51–59

Chernus, Ira 79–85

Dahlitz, Julie 99–104

Eckhardt, William 179–183

Fry, Douglas P. 159–166

Gleditsch, Nils Petter 399–411

Hanrieder, Wolfram F. 291–301
Heisenberg, Wolfgang 225–231
Hogenbrook, Laurens 5–8
Holst, Johan Jørgen 87–97
Hook, Glenn D. 67–77

Ikeda, Daisaku 185–195

Kaldor, Mary 5–8, 425–438
Kim, Ha Poong 155–158
Krell, Gert 241–247
Kubbig, Bernd W. 197–223

Lodgaard, Sverre 335–348
Lübkemeier, Eckhard 249–254

Melman, Seymour 11–19
Mesa, Roberto 413–423
Miller, Steven E. 263–276
Multan, Wojciech 375–385

Niezing, Johan 41–50

Ohlson, Thomas 129–137
Olson, Theodore 33–40

Payer, Cheryl 139–144
Pike, John 255–261

Risse-Kappen, Thomas 283–289

Saperstein, Alvin M. 121–127
Senghaas, Dieter 303–311
Sigal, Leon V. 233–239
Smail, J. Kenneth 167–177
Solo, Pam 5–8
Swan, Bernard 61–65

Thee, Marek 323–334
Tiedtke, Stephan 277–281

Väyrynen, Raimo 349–361

Westing, Arthur H. 9–10, 117–120

Subject Index 1985

Algeria: arms imports 130; resistance against the 1961 general revolt 32.

Armaments, see also arms race and Strategic Defense Initiative: agents of violence 158; Ballistic Missile Defenses (BMDs) 92–93, 101, 338–340; controlling aggression 159; demilitarization of East-West conflict 310–311; European dumping ground 325–327; military pacts 315–316; Nordic region 399–411; and peace 155–158; survival in the nuclear age 159–166; violence 156; war system 313–322.

Arms control, see also disarmament: ABM Treaty 93–94; anti-satellite weapons (ASATs) 91–92; Ballistic Missile Defenses 92–93; bipolar outlook 89; complexities 90; Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban 92; conceptual crisis 199–201; confidence-building measures 349–360; continuities 89–90; crisis stability 210, 225–231, 233; criteria 199–223; domestic acceptability 264–268; European Political Order 291–301; evaluation 202–203; failure 2, 88–90; guidelines for arms reduction 341–343; intercontinental missiles 233–239; intermediate-range nuclear forces 241–247; moratorium on nuclear deployment 338; mutual restraint 88–89; negotiations 268–274, 335–336; non-proliferation 96; normative approach 97; nuclear arms negotiations 87–97; nuclear arms reduction 92–93; nuclear-weapon-free zones 95; space-related 100; statements of principles 91, 345; strategic seminar 95–96; Strategic Defense Initiative 103; strategic stability 208–210, 225–231, 233, 235, 237–239, 343–345; summit meetings 90–91; theatre nuclear weapons 94, 233–239; theoretical context 201–202; theory and practice 263–264; traditional concept 203–208; verification 211–212, 255–261; viability 263–276.

Arms race, see also nuclear weapons and war: cold war 62–62; competition in Europe 94–95; concept of strategic significance 399–400; current strategic situation 230–231; fate of Europe 323–334; geography and technology 400–401; halting the race 331–333; imaging nuclear war 79–85; lesser powers 62–64; munition expenditure 9–10; Nordic region 405–407; nuclear explosions 10; militarization of language 67–77; pawns 61; superpower rivalry 316–319; technological momentum 327; war system 313–322.

Arms trade: debt burden 135–136; downward trend 130–131; major conventional weapons 129–130; perspectives 133–135; structural changes 132–133; Third World 130–131.

Australia: government policy 63–64; nuclear allergy 99; strategic role 63.

Austria: policy of neutrality 387, 392–396; renunciation of chemical weapons 119.

Belgium: nuclear allergy 99.

Canada: renunciation of chemical weapons 119.

Chemical weapons: condemnation 117; Geneva Protocol 117–119; global ban 118–119; reluctance to give up 118; renunciation 118–119; threat of reprisal 117–118.

China: arms exports 129; Sino-Japanese amity 191–192.

Civilian and social defence: concept 28–30; costs 28; deterrent capability 35–36; effects 25–26; historical experiences 25, 32; international law 22–23; methods 24–25; military occupation 24; non-military defence 112; non-military resistance 22–24, 28; non-violence 21, 28–29; obstacles 39–40; personnel 27; popular movements 27; research 27–28; response to nuclear deterrence 35; social defence 33.

Confidence-building measures: enhancement 113; European security 349–360; nature of confidence 349–352; negotiation strategies 355–358; problems 352–353; prospects 358–360; reciprocal 'hostage exchange' 167–177; Stockholm Conference 353–355.

Conflict resolution: legal regime 113; neutrality as a strategy 390–393, 395; non-military methods 113; peace-keeping forces 113.

Conventional weapons: conventional defence 121–122.

Conversion from military to civilian economy: advanced planning 11–13; engineering staff 12–13; capital resources 13–14; industrial facilities 14–15; local government 18; managerial problems 15–16; national and regional levels 12; production workers 17; productivity 19; research and development 18.

Cuba: arms imports 130.

Czechoslovakia: 1968 resistance 21, 32.

Defence: alternative civilian 21–32; conventional 121–122; defensive strategy 122–126; rationality 147–148; territorial militia 124–126; unilateral action 126.

Denmark: Nordic region between the superpowers 399–411; World War II resistance 25.

Detente: arms control 200; between the superpowers 347; disarmament 347; European and great power attitudes 324; military 346–347.

Deterrence: alternative to nuclear deterrence 167–177; arms control 298–300; dissuasion 114; extended 36–39, 113, 249–254; legal aspects 109–110; meaning 33–34; minimal deterrence 7–8, 110–111; nuclear 34–35, 105; overcoming nuclear deterrence 112–113; role of 429–432; social defence 33–40; stable 114; symmetric 7; threat of use of nuclear weapons 109–110.

Disarmament, see also arms control and peace: alternative vision 331–333; Bacteriological and Toxin Weapons Convention 118–119; contribution of neutrals 395; detente 347; diplomacy through strength 337–338; disarmament/ development 2; Disarmament Fund for Development 1–3; economic conversion 11–19; Europe 345–346; failure 88–90; freeze and withdrawal of nuclear weapons 10; general and comprehensive 3; Geneva talks 330–331; goal 336–337; nuclear 84; Palme Commission 113; perspectives 87–88; process 7; transarmament 112.

Economic development: capital imports 141–142; chronic deficits 141; credit problems 143–144; debt crisis 139–144; disarmament/ development symbiosis 2; economic conversion 11–19, security asset 3.

Egypt: arms imports 130.

European security: alternative concept 425–437; armaments dumping ground 325–327; arms race 323–334; arms reductions 250–252; challenge from the Pacific Rim 319–320; confidence-building measures 349–360; controversies in Spain 416–422; conventional defense 121–122; defensive strategy 122–126; disssarmament 345–346; epicentre of peace and war 323–325; European neutrals 393–397; Europe in the global strategic game 313–322; Eurostrategic nuclear balance 295–297; extended deterrence 249–254; freeze and withdrawal of nuclear weapons 5–8; halting the arms race 331–333; intermediate-range nuclear forces 241–247, 283–285; military competition 94–95; NATO and Warsaw Pact 94, 121–122; NATO – 'double-track' decision 326–327; Northern region 399–410; Northern region and the superpowers 402–415; nuclear arms control 283–290; nuclear-weapon-free zones 95, 381–384; post-war developments 314–315; Spain 413–416; theatre nuclear weapons 94; use of human resources 122–123; Western Europe and the USA 291–301; Western European security goals 285–286.

Federal Republic of Germany: arms control 293–295; arms exports 129; attitude to SDI 99; defensive strategy 122–126; military budget/personnel 126; NATO 'double-track' decision 326–327; Ostpolitik 324; renunciation of chemical weapons 119; security posture 123.

Finland: Northern region between the superpowers 399–411.

France: attitude to SDI 99; military budget/personnel 126; weapons export 129, 134.

Germany: Kapp-Putsch 32, Ruhr Kamp (1923) 32.

Human rights: basic 151; crucial liberties 150–152; humanist perspective 152–153; language 150; priorities 150–151.

Hungary: passive resistance (1850–1867) 32; 1956 rising 32.

India: arms imports 130; Indian Ocean zone of peace 51–59.

Indian Ocean: littoral states 53–56; militarization 51–53; non-Indian powers 56–58; peace zone prospects 58; UN resolutions 53; zone of peace 51–59.

Indochina War: munition expenditure 9.

Iraq: arms imports 130.

Ireland: renunciation of chemical weapons 119.

Israel: arms imports 130.

Italy: arms exports 129.

Japan: industrial challenge 319–320; Sino-Japanese amity 191–192.

Jordan: arms imports 130.

Korean War: munition expenditure 9.

Libya: arms imports 130.

Military R&D: arms production 133; destabilizing technologies 343; military technology 432–434; technological momentum 327.

Morocco: arms imports 130.

Netherlands: renunciation of chemical weapons 119.

Neutrality: actual and potential role 387–297; concept 387–390, 297; European neutrals 387, 392–396; mediation and peace keeping 394–395; strategy for conflict resolution 390–393.

New Zealand: nuclear allergy 99; nuclear stand 65.

Nigeria: arms imports 130.

Non-violence: civilian defence 21, 28–29; demanding 61–62; grass-roots role 64; in international relations 61–65; non-cooperation 64; weak against the strong 62–63.

Norway: Nordic region between the superpowers 399–411; resistance during World War II 25.

Nuclear tests: Comprehensive Test Ban 92; explosions 10.

Nuclear war: avoidance 87; imaging 79–85; overcoming apathy 84–85; psychic numbing 81–82.

Nuclear weapons: counting 241–242; cruise missiles 93; dissuasion 114; freeze and withdrawal 5–8; intermediate-range nuclear forces 93; international law 105–116; legal background 105; legal regime 110–113; nuclearization of language 67–77; programmes 96; proliferation 96; reduction 92–93; testing and development 5; theatre nuclear weapons 94; use 105–107, 113; world arsenal 9–10.

Nuclear-weapon-free zones: central issues 378–380; control problems 380–381; denuclearization of Europe 383–384; graduality and flexibility 383; origin of the idea 375–377; past and future 375–384; role of Europe 381–383; role of neutrals 395; sub-regional 95; Tlatelolco Treaty 377–378.
Pakistan: arms imports 130.
Peace: Asia and the Pacific 189–190; buddhist approaches 185–189; civilizational crisis 425; cooperation and threat 161–162; culture 188–189, 192–194; disintegration of incumbent hegemonial order 303–304; East-West conflict 310–311; elimination of nuclear war 185; enhancement of cooperation 163; foresight 163–166; great power code of conduct 311; human rights 145–153; kinds of liberty 145; lasting 7–8, 158; low risk 41–50; new vision 2–3; peace and violence 153; perspectives 321–322; political and economic cycles 425–429; positive and negative 155–156, 158, 396; proposals 187–188; relative risk 42–43; role of neutrality 387–397; science 181; security 43; Sino-Japanese amity 191–192; struggle in Spain 413–422; summit meetings 90–91; survival in the nuclear age 159–166; transforming the state 425–437; US-Soviet rivalry 303–311.
Peace movements: alternative security in Europe 434–437; exposing nuclear war 84–85; freeze and withdrawal of nuclear weapons 5–8; freeze lessons 180; non-governmental organizations 64, 186–187; overcoming apathy 85; pacifism in Spain 419–420.
Peace research: development variable 41–42; effective 180–181; lessons 180; long-term 181–182; paradigms and theory construction 48–49; rationale 179; risk analysis 44–46; science 181; task 179–183; theories and methods 43.
Poland: resistance during World War II 25.
Saudi Arabia: arms imports 130.
Security: alternative concepts 434–437; common security 87, 363–372; confidence-building measures 349–360; economic aspects 368–370; energy issues 370; new approach 371–371; new pattern 363–364; non-military aspects 363–372; Palme Commission 113; perceptional and attitudinal shift 3; premises 365–368; reconceptualization 3.
Soviet Union: ABM Treaty 93–94; ABM defences 100; arms control policy 277–281; arms exports 129–130; ASAT 91–92; attitude to SDI 99; Comprehensive Test Ban 92; development of navy 407–409; emergence of SS-20 327; military power 307–310; nuclear arms reduction 92–93; nuclear strategy 106; statements of principle 91; strategic significance of internal reform 320–321; summit meeting 90.
Spain: political and military issues 413–423.
Star Wars: see Strategic Defense Initiative.
Strategic Defense Initiative: ABM Treaty 93–94, 101; anti-missile defenses 99; arms control 103; ASAT 91–92, 102, 260; Ballistic Missile Defenses 92–93, 101, 338–340; European perspectives 285–289; first strike capability 100; implications for Europe 329–331; meaning and consequences 99–104; Mutual Assured Security 99; preemption 100; space related arms control 100, 103; superiority 100, technology 100, 102; US position 100–101; verification 259–260.
Sweden: complementary forms of defence 21–32; Nordic region between the superpowers 399–411; renunciation of chemical weapons 119.
Switzerland: non-military defence 113.
Syria: arms imports 130.
Third World: arms exports 129; arms imports 130–131.
United Kingdom: arms exports 129; attitude to SDI 99; military budget/personnel 126; renunciation of chemical weapons 126.
United Nations: Disarmament Fund for Development 1–3.
United States of America: ABM Treaty 93–94; arms deployments in Europe 325–327; arms exports 129–130, 134; ASAT 91–92; ballistic missile defenses 338–340; chemical weapons 118; Comprehensive Test Ban 92; hegemony crisis 306–306; military budget/personnel 126; naval policy 408; nuclear arms control 263–276; nuclear arms reduction 92–93; nuclear strategy 106; Presidential Directive 59–106; statements of principle 91; SDI 99–104; summit meetings 90; and Western Europe 291–301.
War: crossing the nuclear threshold 109; decapitation 108; elimination of nuclear war 185; first strike 100, 107–108, 111, 215; law of armed conflict 106, 113; limited nuclear options 106- nuclear war-fighting 107,339; parameters of peace and war 3; prevention 208–211.
World War II: munition expenditure 9.